New Revolt Brings Bloody Christmas Day

ENGLISH MASSES GREET PRESIDENT IN METROPOLIS

Royal Guard Acts as Escort For Mr. and Mrs. Wilson

STREETS ARE ABLAZE WITH MANY AMERICAN FLAGS

Windows Packed With Men and Women Seeking Sight of Executive.

(Associated Press Telegram) London, Dec. 26.—President and Mrs. Wilson were in Buckingham palace this afternoon after a journey from Calais to London, during which they were accorded all the honors ever given royalty. Never has a royal progress—except those of great national ceremonies—excited such interest here as the first state visit of an American president.

The drive of the short procession from the station to the palace was made through streets lined with the Guards regiments in khaki. Fresh flags hung overhead and covered the buildings, while windows, balconies, sidewalks and open spaces were filled with people, many of whom wore the American colors.

It was a brief spectacle. First came the sovereign's escort of troops from the household cavalry, with helmets and steel cuirasses. Then came the car, with King George and Queen Mary, and Princess Mary. These were followed by three others, which passed at most unnoted, all eyes were on Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and the royal family.

Probably the most interesting part of the spectacle for the president, was the people who were crowded every where to greet him. The day being a holiday, working men and women had a chance to turn out with their small children. They made the most of their opportunity and the president have made a stronger appeal. While the formal features of the event were well staged and managed, the human factor presented the most interest. The intermingling of the British and American people, the King George welcomed Mr. Wilson was carpeted with red and the walls and offices were hidden by masses of flags. Chit windows were most monopolized by women while the streets were filled along the way were filled with gay parties no less interesting than those on the streets.

That such masses of American flags could be produced at London's resources and none appreciated them more than the American soldiers and bluejackets among the spectators.

The steamer Brighton on which the president crossed the channel, had a quick and smooth passage and arrived at Dover just about midday. She was met at Calais by Sir Charles Cust, the king's equerry, and Vice Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, who accompanied the party to Dover. Four French destroyers escorted the Brighton to mid-channel where British destroyers and a dozen airplanes took over the duty.

The president, who stepped ashore in splendid spirits when he stepped ashore, was immediately greeted by the Duke of Canning and the other members of the welcoming party.

As President Wilson walked to the train at Dover, many people gathered along the line of the railway and at different stations cheering as the train passed. As the president's train crossed the Thames and entered the station a great cheer went up from the crowd. A salute of 41 guns was fired from the Tower of London and in Hyde Park.

Before the president's arrival it seemed as though London was to have its coldest day of the winter. There was ice in the streets and a white frost on the grass. Fortunately however, there was neither rain nor fog which prevail in December. Before eleven o'clock streets in the west end were filled with holiday throngs afoot and in motor cars watching hundreds of workmen putting the finishing touches to the decorations, some of which had been blown down during the night.

The president's trip to London was carried out according to schedule. His train, which left Dover at 12:30 o'clock arrived at Charing Cross station on time.

The parade was witnessed by such an outpouring of people and amid such enthusiasm as London had never known except upon the occasion of coronations and Queen Victoria's jubilee in 1897. There was general agreement among Londoners that no visiting head of a state had ever been given such an ovation as that accorded the American president.

Enthusiastic scenes marked the arrival at the Charing Cross Station. As the president, accompanied by King George, emerged from the station the crowds jammed the streets broke into prolonged cheers. At the same time guns began to thunder out a salute and dozens of airplanes soared overhead. The bells and chimes all over the city also pealed out a welcome.

During the procession from the station flags, hats and handkerchiefs were waved. The president was unmoved throughout the drive to acknowledge the cheering.

VICTORIOUS FLEET PASSES IN REVIEW BEFORE DANIELS

Ten Dreadnaughts Just Back From European Waters are in Line

TWENTY-ONE AIRPLANES ACT AS ESCORT FOR FIGHTERS

Hundreds of Thousands Line Shores to Watch Impressive Ceremony

(Associated Press Telegram) New York, Dec. 26.—Led by the super-dreadnaught Arizona, 10 great battleships in command of Admiral Henry T. Mayo—the vanguard of America's victory fleet in European waters—steamed majestically up New York harbor today in review before Secretary of the Navy Daniels and were greeted with a tumultuous reception by harbor craft and hundreds of thousands of persons who lined the shores. The fleet reached Ambrose channel late yesterday afternoon and rode at anchor within sight of the city's lights last night.

The ships weighed anchor at 7:30 o'clock today and escorted by a fleet of 21 airplanes proceeded slowly up the harbor to the Statue of Liberty, where Secretary Daniels and a party of distinguished guests on the presidential yacht, Mayflower, reviewed the inspiring procession. The shrieks of thousands of welcoming sirens and whistles were drowned by the thunderous salutes of 19 guns from each battleship as it came abreast of the Mayflower.

The dreadnaughts passed up the Hudson and anchored from 56th to 125th street and prepared to disembark for 10,000 men to disembark for the land parade down Fifth avenue this afternoon.

The ships welcomed home after 18 months of strenuous patrols of seas infested by enemy submarines were the Pennsylvania; the Arizona; the Oklahoma; the Nevada; the Utah; the New York; the Texas; the Arkansas; the Wyoming; and the Florida.

In addition to Secretary Daniels, the reviewing party included Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of Agriculture Houston, General Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the United States army; Admiral Grant of the British navy, and the senior naval attaches of the allied nations.

After the parade this afternoon the men will be given short leave and a number of entertainments and dinners will be given in their honor.

As the ships approached quarantine to await the hour of review occasional flurries of snow blown on a cold west wind fell from clouded skies which offered no prospect of sunshine.

When the fleet was at anchor off Ambrose channel lights the snow fell thickly. Dreadnaughts and their escorting cruisers could not be seen from the shore.

All the way into the harbor as the warships moved through the snow they presented a winter spectacle. Under the many thousands of persons who had assembled on the shore from Sandy Hook to Battery Park and the lower Hudson river faced the cold and the snowfall, determined to pay a tribute of cheers and waving flags and handkerchiefs to the 25,000 naval heroes as they passed by the misty ships.

Scarcely visible, a giant kit balloon preceded the Arizona—leading unit of the fleet, into the harbor—an aircraft floated, 500 feet up, by the gunboat Gloucester, at the head of a long line. Behind the armada two more balloons were pulled along about the Florida—the last warship to enter. Above the slowly steaming dreadnaughts airplanes flitted and the roar of whistles which gave to the scene a picturesque touch as they darted about above the masts of the battleships. From the masts fluttered a great American flag. Promptly at 10 o'clock, notwithstanding the difficulty of maneuvering in the snowstorm, the Arizona steamed by the Mayflower, firing her salute of 19 guns in honor of Secretary Daniels.

With twenty-two minutes the last of the dreadnaughts, the Florida, flying her homebound pennant, had passed the Mayflower, said a wireless message from the press boat. The saluting guns could be heard but the ships themselves could scarcely be seen from the New York shore. As they swung up the river however, their great grey shapes became distinctly visible and the watching crowds could see the sailors and marines lining the rails at attention and could hear the ship's bands playing. Soon after the snow fall ceased and the skies brightened somewhat.

At 10:46 the Mayflower left her station and proceeded up the river to review the fleet at anchor.

Army Officer Arriving in America Tells of Heavy Casualties in King Emmanuel's Army.

(Associated Press Telegram) New York, Dec. 26.—Italy's losses in killed, wounded, dead of disease, disabled, missing and prisoners, aggregated 2,800,000, according to Colonel Hugo Pizzarello of the Italian army, who arrived here recently on a mission for his government. He gave out figures today amplifying an announcement made in Paris last Saturday by Salvatore Burdiali, a former member of the Italian cabinet, that Italy had lost 500,000 men in killed or dead of wounds in the war.

"As Italy's effort and losses are so much bigger than those previously mentioned," said Colonel Pizzarello, "we feel quite justified in thinking that the public should know the exact figures of the total losses she suffered so as to give American public opinion complete knowledge of the great part Italy played in the struggle for justice."

Disasters alone took a death toll of 300,000 men in the war zone, he said while the number of killed was 500,000 and the wounded, missing and prisoners, 2,000,000.

(Associated Press Telegram) Washington, Dec. 26.—Dissolution of the Turkish parliament was proclaimed yesterday by the minister of the interior. Dispatches from Constantinople to the Petit Parisien reported to Washington today through official channels. It had been expected that the Turkish cabinet would fall, but instead the house of deputies was dissolved by proclamation.

Later the minister read a long declaration in reply to interpellation from the deputies of the opposition in which he outlined the history of the war and pointed out that Turkey was led into the war through no necessity but to content the ambitions of some high officials.

It also was reported from Constantinople, the advices said, that the Ottoman government had to decide to create a special court martial for the trial of all functionaries responsible for the recent massacres of Armenians, most of them having fled to the country with Enver Pasha and Djemal.

The dispatch noted that Marshal von Sanders, formerly head of the German military mission to Turkey and one of those primarily responsible for the massacres, was allowed to leave Constantinople freely.

MANY REGIMENTS JOIN REVOLTERS

WANT EBERT AND HASSE REPLACED BY LEDEBOUR AND LIEBKNECHT AS PREMIER AND SECRETARY OF STATE

WHOLE BERLIN GARRISON EXPECTED TO JOIN THE REVOLUTIONISTS

Nearly 100 Persons Killed Tuesday In Street Fighting as New Revolt Seize Strategic Points in German Capital—Former Royal Palaces are Seized

(Associated Press Telegram) London, Dec. 26.—The Alexander and Franzer regiments have openly joined the revolting sailors in Berlin and it is predicted in advices sent from Berlin late Christmas night that nearly the entire Berlin garrison will support them leaving the government without troops.

These advices were transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Copenhagen. They add that large numbers of sailors are reported to be coming from Kiel to join their comrades in Berlin.

London, Dec. 26.—Nearly 100 persons were killed in the street fighting which began in Berlin on Tuesday morning, according to the latest reports from the German capital, transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Copenhagen. The republican guards tried several times to take the royal stables and the headquarters of the revolting sailors but were repulsed.

Many soldiers belonging to the Berlin Guard and a few of the republican guards joined the sailors, Vorwärts reports.

When these reports were sent a large number of armed civilians were continuing to join the sailors, not only at the royal stables but in the Koenigsstrasse. This street with all its houses was reported in the hands of the sailors who were supported by the Spartacists. They demanded that Premier Ebert and Secretary Haase resign and be replaced by George Ledebour and Dr. Karl Liebknecht.

Dr. Liebknecht, the advices add, went to the chancellor's palace and had a long conference with the ministers, the result of which was unknown.

Further fighting was anticipated as the Spartacists and the sailors had decided to attempt to force the guards to return to Potsdam. The guards were stationed in Unter den Linden and on the Werdeschen Platz.

According to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen a force of 100 sailors on Monday formed a guard and seized the Red Castle, one of the former royal palaces. They blocked the main streets and entered the public buildings and arrested Herr Wels, the military commander of Berlin, Fischer, his adjutant, and Dr. Bongard.

The republican guard with machine guns and artillery bombarded the castle. Holes were made in the walls. The palace was destroyed and all the windows smashed. The balcony from which former Emperor William once made a speech in which he declared: "I know no parties," was partly smashed.

The guard eventually occupied the castle but the sailors were still holding another large building at the time the dispatch was filed. The square in front of the castle was littered with stones and missiles.

The mutinous sailors who had been holding out in the Red Palace at Berlin have hoisted the white flag and have been allowed to leave under guard, according to advices from Berlin sent by the Exchange Telegraph, correspondent at Amsterdam. Government troops, the message adds, now occupy the palace and the royal stables.

MILITARY COMMANDER ESCAPES EXECUTION

(Associated Press Telegram) Berlin, Wednesday, Dec. 24.—Herr Wels, the military commander of Berlin, who was arrested Monday by revolting sailors during the fighting in which many sailors and republican guards were killed and wounded, was released shortly before noon today. He spent the night in the basement of the former royal stables.

Some of the sailors were in favor of his immediate execution but cooler heads opposed this plan. Some proposed that he be locked up in a small chamber with the bodies of sailors and other victims of Monday's fighting. That the escaped violence was due to the intervention of socialist leaders.

Fifty sailors, it is reported, are still concealed in the Red Palace, from which most of them were driven Monday by the republican guards. Twelve hundred sailors are holding out in the royal stables. Both groups have sent out word that the buildings will have to be razed before they surrender.

Looting has been going on in the palace since yesterday and by early this morning private possessions of the former emperor and former empress had been carried away or destroyed.

A report was in circulation at 2 o'clock this afternoon that the marines were expecting heavy reinforcements from Kiel and Wilhelmshaven.

ENGLISH SOLDIERS CHEER PRES. WILSON

(Associated Press Telegram) London, Dec. 26.—As soon as President Wilson and his party entered Buckingham Palace the crowds outside included several hundred wounded soldiers in the palace yard. There was great cheering and then came shouts of "We want Wilson!" "We want Wilson!" In response the president and Mrs. Wilson, together with King George and Queen Mary, soon appeared on the second floor balcony. Their appearance was the signal for renewed cheering.

President Wilson laughed and waved his hand, indicating that he would rather not speak. Mrs. Wilson waved a small Union Jack. The crowd however insisted on a speech, so the president waved the chorus of voices to silence and then addressed himself especially to the wounded soldiers.

"I do not want to make a speech," he said, "but I do want to tell you how much I honor you men who have been wounded in this fight for freedom and to thank you all for the welcome you have so generously given me. I hope each and every one of you will come through safely to enjoy the fruits of victory for which you so courageously fought."

Mrs. Wilson received a round of cheers when she appeared on the balcony.

TELLS STORY OF LOSS OF BRITISH SUBMARINE

London, Wednesday, Dec. 25, via Montreal. The official report of the sinking of the famous British submarine E-14 off the Dardanelles early in 1918 with the loss of her command, Lieutenant Commander Geoffrey White and all except seven of the crew, has just been published.

The E-14 left Mudros on the evening of January 27 and proceeded on the Dardanelles to search for the Goeben. After diving under submarine nets, she found that the Goeben had left a few hours previously, so Commander White turned back, keeping a sharp lookout for enemy craft.

A torpedo was fired at the ship which carried the Goeben's ammunition causing a heavy explosion which extinguished the submarine's lights and sprung the fore hatch. Leading badly, the submarine rose to the surface. The forts immediately opened a heavy fire but did not hit her. She submerged 100 feet and continued on her course but becoming unsteady she was brought to the surface as she could no longer be relied on under water. Heavy fire immediately opened on both sides of the straits and a shell hit the hull, destroying the upper steering gear.

One of the survivors of the E-14 says:

"Orders were given to steer from below and we ran the gauntlet for half an hour, only a few shots hitting us. The captain, seeing that escape was hopeless, ran toward shore. His last words were 'We are in God's hands.' Only a few seconds later I looked for him and saw his body. He was killed by a shell fire, rolled into the water and went under. The last shell hit the starboard side of our boat, killing all near it, I believe."

The submarine soon afterwards ran into a sandbank close in shore and the Turks picked up the survivors.

ROYAL SALUTE GREET WILSON SHIP AT DOVER

(Associated Press Telegram)

Dover, England, Dec. 26.—The weather was bright and crisp this morning and Dover wore a festive appearance with its decorations and its animated throngs ready to greet the President and Mrs. Wilson. Their arrival was signalled by the firing of a royal salute. Large crowds lined the admiralty pier and its approaches long before the president came ashore. The mayor presented an address of welcome to the president.

President Wilson then reviewed the guard of honor from the naval garrison of Dover. The scene in the harbor as the presidential vessel entered was an animated one. Aeroplanes and seaplanes in large numbers circled overhead while the warships in the harbor, which joined the shore batteries in firing the salute were gaily dressed with bunting. The crews manned ships and cheered as the presidential boat passed into the harbor.

In reply to an address of welcome President Wilson said: "We have come through many serious times together and therefore can regard each other in a new light as comrades and associates. Because nothing brings men together like a common understanding and a common purpose."

"It is therefore with deep emotion and peculiar gratification that I find myself afforded the opportunity of meeting with my mind with the minds of those who, with a like intention, are proposing to do the best they can and that can be done in the great settlement of the struggle."

WILSON PROMISES BOYS HAPPY NEW YEAR

(Associated Press Telegram)

On Board President Wilson's Special Train en route to Calais, Dec. 26.—President Wilson left Chaumont for England last Sunday afternoon feeling more strongly than ever the magnificent part American soldiers took in the winning of the war. Yesterday's review, in which ten thousand American soldiers marched before him, created quite apart from the historical significance of reviewing fighting men on foreign soil for the first time.

"When addressing his troops as 'fellow countrymen,' he told them that he believed that he would 'promise them a happy New Year' and was consistent in the keynote of the address and friends about Mr. Wilson construed his words to mean that he was beginning to see the way more clearly toward the attainment of the objectives he has set for himself at the peace conference."

At least one very important address may be expected from the president while he is in England. It may define his line of thought more clearly on issues in which Great Britain is so greatly interested. He will take opportunity to do this in the course of conferences he will hold with Premier Lloyd George, A. J. Balfour, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, but whatever public speeches he will make will be of course of explanation to the English people themselves, who he believes are in accord with the principles upon which the making of peace has been begun.

In his address to the American troops yesterday, President Wilson said he had found no difference in principle or of fundamental purpose. He expects to return to Paris to continue the work of the peace conference with what may be differences of opinion cleared away or on the way to accommodation.

Yesterday's review was a picture worthy of a great painter. The sight of ten thousand American veterans carrying the United States flag on the crest of a sister republic, a comrades in arms in a great cause, was just a little too much to permit the president to suppress his emotion. He frankly admitted being "all choked up."

Mr. Wilson's visit to soldiers' billets in nearby towns will long be remembered. At one place he climbed a ladder to the loft of a stable to talk with soldiers quartered there. Everywhere the boys and girls of the little villages brought native flowers of gifts to him. One very little miss actually hopped into his car and placed a flower on his cheek before the president knew what was going on. Ambassador and Madame Jusserand who accompanied President and Mrs. Wilson to Chaumont, left for Paris at the same time that Mr. Wilson's train started toward Calais.

Davis was driving west in Granville street Saturday night about 8 o'clock and ran into the Bullock car, the police were told, Davis claiming that Bullock had no tail lights, which was denied by Bullock. While the two men were arguing over the matter, their cars standing in the street, William Barriek came along and bumped into the Davis car, Barriek's car being damaged to the extent of about $100. ## O. R. C. PRESENT CHAIR TO FORMER SECRETARY

Joe S. Woodward, former secretary and treasurer of the local division of the Ohio Railway conductors, and ex-clerk of the city council, was given a delightful Christmas surprise by his former associates in the order.

They had resolved to let their former co-worker know they had not forgotten him and they called at his home on Christmas day and presented him with a wheel chair. Mr. Woodward served as secretary and treasurer of the O. R. C. until ill health forced him to retire from the service. Until recently he has served as clerk of the city council, where his genial attitude and cheerful spirit won him many friends.

Mr. Woodward stated he desired to thank all his friends through the paper for their thoughtfulness and remembrance.

CAROLS ARE SUNG BY RAILROAD GLEE CLUB

On Christmas eve the B. and O. Glee club, under the direction of Professor Klop, pleased a large crowd when they rendered a program of well chosen Christmas carols, at the steps of the court house. The boys made a big hit and were forced to respond to several encores.

The B. and O. shows enterprise in having organized this chorus of splendid voices, the club having among its members some of the best amateurs in the city.

MENACE TO CAUCASIAN RACE

Practice of Polygamy in the Orient Constitutes Peril Which Must Not Be Underestimated.

The storm center of social reform in Asia for the next quarter of a century is likely to be over the relations of the sexes, writes Tyler Dennett in Asia. If any statement of the menace of polygamy were necessary to bring home to American readers the immediacy of the subject, some recent statements from the editorial columns of the Far Eastern Review would seem to be suitable. The Caucasian population of the world is doubling its number once in a hundred years; the dark-skinned races, which now outnumber the white population two to one, are doubling their numbers every twenty-five years.

At least such is the case in Korea, where the most recent figures are available. The editor of the Far Eastern Review figures out that at the present rate of increase the Caucasian element in the world's population will have shrunk in a hundred years to scarcely 5 per cent. The oriental demands male children, as many of them as he can produce. The editorial in question says: "So long as the oriental man is able to arrogate to himself the right to possess plural wives, just so long will polygamy prevail. But there is a way out and one which is becoming broader and more easy to tread each year. The wife with foreign education is a precious thing in China in the eyes of the returned students, since she is one of a few women of his own race that realizes and understands his peculiar aspirations. She has it in her hands to be the one and only wife, and if the few examples that have come under the writer's notice are any criterion, she will exert that power to the utmost."

One stick of gum made the world rosier

"I DIDN'T have anything more than a grin-and-bear-it spirit when they first rolled me onto that little white iron bed, but one of the boys brought me in a package of chewing gum after a while and the world honestly looked rosier as soon as I took my first chew. This lad's kindness and the cheer that package of gum gave me impressed me so that after I was able to hobble around I spent five francs, all the money I had, buying gum at the hospital canteen and playing 'good Samaritan.' You can't imagine the good it did for those wounded boys, and the smile of appreciation when they saw that little package."

This is but one of the many reasons why you are having difficulty today in getting your favorite brand of Adams chewing gum. Please remember that millions upon millions sticks of Adams gum have gone to the boys in France. If Adams Black Jack is missing from the counter try Adams Pepsin, Adams Chiclets, Adams Yucatan or any Adams brand.

latest evidence:

Mr. Eagon—I saw your ad. in the local paper. Also heard friends talking about Nerv-Worth, which you sell; and decided to try a bottle. After trying one bottle of this splendid remedy for stomach distress and nervousness I feel one hundred per cent better. I have been having that don't-care-to-doanything feeling for some time past and doing housework was a burden, but did not find anything that gave relief and an appetite until I tried Nerv-Worth. I tried many other remedies without success. I told my grandma the other day about Nerv-Worth and how much good it did for me and she also is trying it out with good results. I know I have said several bottles for you by telling friends about it.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES.

One of the last official acts of William C. McAdo, as secretary of the treasury, was to issue a nappel for the payment of higher salaries to employees of the government.

The people of course wish to see justice done. But they wish to be sure they are getting their money's worth. It has been felt in the past that government employees had short hours and did not work very hard either. The same impression prevailed largely in regard to state employees.

There is a general feeling that public work is not done as efficiently as work handled by private enterprise. The rank-and file of the workers are not allowed to blame. The trouble is frequently that appointments are made on political considerations, of men who have no particular capacity for executive work. The ambitions of many government workers are killed by observing cases where pull and friendship and influence are more helpful in securing promotion than efficiency. These conditions are unfortunate. A career in the public service ought to be an attractive one, which competent young people would feel offered good inducements, so that they could afford to fit themselves for it by education.

The pay that public employees get will in the long run depend on their efficiency. They must cultivate in their own body an esprit de corps and a morale that will raise these services to the highest possible point of efficiency. When red tape disappears from public work, and these officers run with the speed and smoothness of a well managed business, the improvement in system and achievement can be expected to gain substantial recognition. The government will always have to pay enough to get the work done, but so far a sufficiency of help has usually been available.

DEMobilizing SOLDIERS

It is already reported that in a good many of the larger cities, demobilized soldiers are seen without any work, and apparently with no definite plans for the future. They must feel some reaction from the strict discipline of the camps. Some of them are not yet mature enough to know what to do with their new freedom.

The idea is advanced that instead of demobilizing the soldiers near their home camps, they should be taken to central points as near their homes as possible, so as to encourage them to go home promptly. That would prevent them being side tracked in large cities on their way home.

It is recalled that after the Civil war, a great many of the soldiers were not content to return to their home towns. A great many of them joined the migration from the east to the undeveloped west. That was a useful movement of population, and helped develop the country. Now with the free lands at high prices, there will be more tendency for these boys to seek large cities.

They have gotten a taste of bigger things than their home town afforded. They no doubt long for lives of more thrill and excitement. That attitude favors enterprise and adventure, but may lead them to neglect the home opportunities where in the long run they can do the best for themselves.

Unless a soldier has some definite opening where he sees a reasonable chance to make good, the best thing he can do is to get back to the home town. Then if he feels capable of a larger future, he should take up some carefully considered plan for educating himself for bigger work. But drifting into large cities will be harmful to the majority of them.

THE CAROLS.

One of the prettiest observances of the modern Christmas is the singing of carols about the streets. This was a popular feature of the holiday in England three or four centuries ago, but is comparatively novel in this country.

The best of the Christmas carols are generally the oldest. These ancient melodies have a peculiarly picturesque and romantic character. That a tune should be handed down from one generation to another over so long a period, indicates that it must have some vital quality of melody and rhythm.

Many of these melodies came down through periods when there were no singing books. Somehow their narrative power made them live. They still have their quaint charm and fascination.

So it is a pleasure when the singers of a town revive this ancient custom. Newark had no community Christmas tree this year. Why not?

Some one wants to know what the draft boards are doing now? Well, our latest advice is that they were looking up time tables to the remotest solitudes on the continent, where the only noise is the dropping of pine needles on the turf.

Mr. Von Bernstorff says a thing can not be kept secret very long in the United States. Mr. B. ought to realize how the pleasure of conversation is intensified when you are telling things communicated to you as a secret.

PEACE CONFERENCE SLOW.

(Ohio State Journal.)
It is given out that the peace conference will require six months to complete its labors. This naturally leads one to suspect that there are great problems to solve which do not appear on the surface. And yet, one can imagine that the very importance of the event serves to prolong its deliberations. It is a long time to wait, from the winter to the summer solstice, to put into practical shape the plain propositions of that armistice. If it takes that long, it is certain President Wilson will not stay and he has already said as much. When the main points are agreed upon he will return. It could be wished that the whole matter could be settled and the terms definitely stated within the time which he has promised to spend abroad. He understands as much as any man what the war was about and we may trust to his judgment, especially in this case in the matter of a league of peace, the crowning act of our great victory. He is sound on that even though he doesn't get all he wants. But outside of this we wish he would come home and discipline his cabinet a little.

ANTWERP'S ACCESS TO THE SEA.

(Philadelphia Record.)

If Canada possessed Long Island and Staten Island, and the commerce of New York could get in and out only through the jurisdiction of a foreign government, we could understand the demand of the Belgians that the boundary between their country and Holland should be so changed that the vast shipping business of Antwerp would not have to traverse Dutch waters. In our early history we demanded that the exports of the Mississippi Valley should not be required to go to sea, through a French or Spanish section of the river. We got what we wanted by purchase, but we would have fought for it otherwise.

The right of Antwerp to access to the sea by a Belgian channel is a natural right, if there is any such thing. And that it has no such access is due to the fact that Holland drove a hard bargain. The Belgians revolted and secured their independence, but in order to get Holland's recognition of their independence they put up with this injustice in the delimitation of the two nations.

The peace conference may not feel like forcing a change of boundary, but it is undeniable that America and the allies feel gratitude and admiration for the Belgians, and they have no occasion to feel either for the Hollanders, whose hope of preserving their own independence rested entirely upon the overthrow of Germany, whose intention of throwing the tentacles of the empire around Holland were not concealed. But the Dutch thrifly served their neutrality, trusted the allies to preserve their national existence and made a pile of money selling food in Germany.

If Holland would accept a small section of Germany in consideration of giving up Dutch Flanders probably the matter could be arranged. It is quite likely that the population of Dutch Flanders is Dutch, and does not wish to have its sovereignty changed, and the president has declared himself unalterably opposed to the transfer of populations without their consent. But their rights are not the only ones concerned. The right of Antwerp to a Belgian channel to the sea is pretty nearly fundamental. We are very skeptical of the arguments of the Dutch international lawyers, that the Dutch possession of the mouth of the Scheldt was a protection of the allies, because Germany refrained out of respect for enternal rights to justify use Antwerp as a submarine base. There has been nothing in Germany's respect for neutral rights to justify this inference. In the sinking of Dutch steamers the Germans showed no respect for the rights of Holland.

The rights of Antwerp should not depend upon any concession from Holland, but upon an international declaration of right. But the right of Antwerp to a channel might possibly be harmonized with the territorial claims of Holland by a decree of the parties to the peace conference that Holland's ownership of both banks of the Scheldt should not carry with it rights of ownership to the channel, but that the river, between high water on one side and high water on the other, should be Belgian, and Holland should have no right of fortifying the banks. This would leave to Holland the soil and the people, and recognize Antwerp's right to access to the sea without the consent of any other country.

A LEAGUE OF WAR.
(Rochester Post-Express.)
It is much to be feared that peace can never be secured by any league of peace. A league of nations is, indeed, desirable—but what kind of a league? The dream of universal peace has always had a fascination for humanitarian enthusiasts. Rousseau adumbrated a scheme in his "Confessions" by which nations might bring about world peace. In 1815, the date of the congress of Vienna, the monarchs of Prussia, Russia, and Austria proposed to establish peace on Christian principles. But in reality these rulers only wanted a peace by which autocracy could crush liberty.

The horrors of the world war have naturally stimulated humane persons to desire a permanent peace which would forever give war its "request." But how is such a permanent peace to be secured? Surely not by mere discussion? Nations that want to fight will not sheath the sword because pacifists expatiate on the evils of war.

We may recall the German "peace drives" which preceded the surrender of Germany. Even the former Kaiser was before the end anxious for peace—but what he wanted was a German peace—a peace dependent on "the opinion of the German people." All the leaders of Germany gloried in war. And Germany, as some fatuous orators are just now saying is still "unrepentant." She only yields because she is powerless in the face of irresistible force. And only by force can the peace of nations be safeguarded. Instead of a League of Peace, what is most likely to compel militant nations to keep the peace is a League of War—that is, a league supported by the combined armies of nations desirous of peace which would make any recalcitrant nation or nations refrain from war through fear.

Washington believed in the principle that if we want peace we should prepare for war. A corollary to this axiom is that peace may always be secured by adequate preparation for victory in war. The power to conquer is the price of peace.

A SACRIFICE FOR COUNTRY.

(Pittsburgh Gazette Times.)
Rarely is it said, or can be said, of a public servant outside the military or naval branches that he gave his life in the performance of duty to his country. Such, however, is the high testimonial paid by the State Department to Walter Hines Page, lately ambassador to the Court of St. James, a post customarily regarded by the people as an enviable one for little in the nature of arduous labor. We knew, to be sure, that with the breaking of the European war a marked change came over the activities of our Embassy at London, but so far as public knowledge went there was no reason to believe Mr. Page endangered his life by remaining at his post. It is surprising then and gratifying as well to read this concluding sentence in the State Department's public recognition of the late Ambassador's services: "His high sense of duty, his zeal and self-sacrificing devotion to the service resulted in his illness and his untimely death."

BEAUTIFUL HAIR, THICK, WAVY, FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Save your hair! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after an application of Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet, but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful. You can surely have pretty, charming lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will spend a few cents for a bottle of Danderine. It is sold at every drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.—Adv.

42ND DIVISION IS OFFICIALLY CITED

More Than Half of Time in Line Spent in Actual Fighting—Feared by the Huns.

The wonderful fighting done by the Forty-second or "Rainbow" division, which includes Company B, of the 166th Infantry, in which so many Newark men are set forth in detail officially for the first time, in an official citation of the 42nd division.

The copy of the citation has just reached Washington and bears the date of November 15, two days after the signing of the armistice. The citation says:

"The Forty-second division has now been in France more than a year. From the time it assembled from the ports of embarkation, the division has remained continuously in the zone of the armies, its first training are being within the sound of the guns of St. Mihiel. In February, 1918, the division was sent into the line and has been in contact with the enemy almost continuously since that time until the armistice was signed by the Germans on November 11, 1918.

Out of a total of 22 days of the great war which have elapsed since it first entered the line, the division has been engaged with the enemy 180 days and the balance of the time has been spent in moving from front to front, or in reserve close behind the front.

"The division has marched by road, traveled by camion and moved by train. It has held a wide sector front in Louane, and it has been in battle in the Champagne, in the Woivre, at St. Mihiel, and in the Argonne. It was the only American division to assist in the disastrous defeat of the great German offensive of July 15, on the battlefield in Champagne. From that time on it has taken part in every large American operation.

"In November, when the German power was finally broken, the division was sent to the front, where it reached the northernmost point attained by the first American army in its magnificent advance.

"The American high command has long since employed the Forty-second division as a first class shock division. The French commanders under whom the division has served have cited it in orders and now captured German documents show the regard in which the division has been held by the enemy. The weekly summary of information for October 9, 1918, of the German group of armies which held the front from the Argonne to the Meuse enumerates the American units on its front and makes the following statement:

"The engagement of the Forty-second division is to be expected soon. It is in splendid fighting condition and is counted among the best American divisions."

"In the course of its service the division has taken prisoners from 26 enemy divisions, including three imperial guard divisions and 22 separate units."

This quotation from German army headquarters shows officially for the first time the great respect the German had for the Forty-second division. They had good reason to hold it in awe.

Resting the Moods.
It is pleasant and very uncomfortable for other persons for one to indulge publicly in moods. Almost every woman has moments when she could scream from sheer irritability. At the end of five minutes you will feel much rested. If possible do this four or five times a day.

The nervous woman who feels inclined to scream if the door slams or something drops suddenly, and the girl who cannot help being irritable, needs five minutes of absolute relaxation at least twice a day in a dark room.

On no days, when you feel like fuming out of the window, try this: Stand erect, hands clasped in front and

Please, Mother! It's Nasty! Give Me a Candy Cascaret!

TO MOTHERS! Instead of the dreaded dose of castor oil, drops, calomel or pills, give your children Cascarets and save money, worry and trouble. Children love Cascarets because they taste like candy. Nothing else acts so gently but surely on the child's little stomach, liver and bowels.

When one of the kiddies has a white tongue, tainted breath, sour stomach or a cold; when cross, bilious, feverish, constipated, remember, a Cascaret to quickly "work" away the nasty bile, sour fermentations and poisons should always be the first treatment given. Cascarets never gripe the tender bowels, never injure, and never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets contain directions for children's dose from one year old and upwards. Also for adults.

head bowed, and expel all the air from the lungs. While inhaling deeply through the nostrils, center the thought on perfect peace. This exercise will, in a few moments, cause the nervous feeling to completely subside. It is, incidentally, a fine exercise for reducing a double chin.

Every Day Etiquette
"Please tell me whether or not the words 'Miss' and 'Mr.' are used before the names of the bride and groom in their wedding invitations?" inquired the bride to be.

The word "Miss" is omitted before the name of the bride but "Mr." is used before the name of the groom," said her aunt.

Sherwood Miller, who is attached to the commissary department at the Great Lakes Naval Training station is spending a ten days furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Miller of Hudson avenue.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART; IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ailments which people today can be traced back to the kidney trouble.

The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters of your blood. If the poisons which are swept from the tissues by the blood are not eliminated through the kidneys, disease of one form or another will claim you as a victim.

Kidney disease is usually indicated by weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gait stony, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and humors.

All these derangements are nature's signals that the kidneys are "up." You should use GOLD MEDAL Backus Oil Capsules immediately. The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammation and drives the germs which have caused it. Go to your druggist today and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Backus Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel better and vigor returning. After you feel somewhat improved continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep the first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks.

Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Three sizes. Money refunded if they do not help you.

POVERTY AND WANT IS FOUND BY SANTA CLAUS CLUB IN ITS ROUNDS

Comfort and Good Cheer Brought to Homes of Sufferers—Hundreds of Children Made Glad by Gifts of Toys and Clothing

NEWSIE IN NEW TOGS SHOWS HIS MOTHER A "NEW BILL"

A seven year old newsboy was made supremely happy on Christmas through the cooperation of the barbers in the Curry shop in the Avenue. The little chap was invited to call at the shop the day before Christmas. He was given a hair cut, shampoo and all the trimmings after which he was taken out and fitted with underclothing, shirt, suit, hat, shoes and stockings. Before he left the shop he was given a new outfit. The youngster smiled as he caught a glimpse of himself in a mirror and exclaimed "Now I'll go home and show mother a new bill." As he left one of the patrons of the shop slipped a coin in his coat pocket.

While the jungle of sleigh bells was missing the gladness and happiness of the Christmas day were not, and the homes of 400 little tots were made joyous by the visit of Santa Claus.

With the weather turning cold and the soft sifting of minute snow flakes the day took on the atmosphere of the ideal Christmas, and happily and prayerfully celebrated in reality "Good will and peace to men," for the first time in several years.

Each Christmas morning five trucks filled with the Christmas packages, and surrounded by Santa Claus, started on the routes. Cries of gladness greeted the arrival of Santa at the homes in most instances, but there were cases pitiable in the extreme, where want, poverty and illness made the day a sad one.

In one home, Santa found no one out of bed, because the family had no fuel with which to heat the house. A wheelbarrow was found and loaded with coal by the Santa club. In another home, all the members of the family were ill with influenza, and the father, a paralytic, was crawling around on his hands and knees to care for the other members of the family.

In another home the children were nude, the family having no clothing for them. On the visits of the day, a little home of an aged man and woman was found. The man is ill, probably dying, and they were facing a possibility of being evicted owing to inability to pay rent. The rent was paid for them by the club.

In the most of the homes, however, gladness reigned, and the little girl who wanted the bunny, was made glad, and received many gifts.

In the afternoon there remained a quantity of popcorn and candy, so a truck visited the poorer sections of the city, and it was distributed among the kiddies.

In the Catholic churches of the city, three Christmas masses were celebrated. The masses being at 8 o'clock in the morning. Both churches were beautified with the use of Christmas greens, and elaborate musical programs were given.

The Christian Endeavor society of the first Presbyterian church held a Sunday prayer meeting at 8 o'clock Christmas morning.

All the public institutions of the city celebrated Christmas with special dinners and programs. At the city prison a special dinner of stewed chicken and other goodies was served, and Turnkey Abbott gave the inmates a pipe and plenty of tobacco, and by order of the mayor they were given their freedom.

In the evening the theatres were filled with the holiday crowds.

Although Postmaster Meeker had announced there would be no delivery of mail, the incoming mail was so heavy it was found necessary to make one delivery and the parcel post wagons were busy throughout the morning.

PASTORS FORM ORGANIZATION

Takes Place of Association
Which Has Passed Out of Existence—Officers are Elected.

Following the disintegration of the former ministerial association of the city, a ministerial union has been organized and a meeting was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The organization takes its members from a number of Protestant churches of the city, and at a meeting to be held the first Monday in January the new officers will be installed. They are: President, Rev. Paul E. Hanks; secretary, Rev. Paul E. Kemper; treasurer, Rev. P. E. Wright. The committees will be named later.

Wall Street.

New York, Dec. 23.—Selling of speculative issues was resumed at the opening today, utilities and metals again reflecting special pressure. Developments over the holiday in no wise diminished the feeling of pessimism prevalent among traders.

U. S. 8% 10-year loan, American Smelting, Brooklyn transit and Manhattan railway lost one to almost two points before the end of the first half. American Petroleum and tobacco were the only shares to hold ground.

Rails were the only stocks to show a small measure of support, even that group reacting later, however, as a result of further pressure which involved individual lots of 1,000 to 4,000 shares. Coppers and utilities also extended their early reversals although Brooklyn Transit rallied before noon.

Oils, leathers and food issues continued to feature the firmer specialties. Liberty Bonds were variable and foreign bonds shaded slightly.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Seasonable weather conditions likely to enlarge the crop movement and to promote the welfare of winter wheat brought about a moderate downturn today in the price of corn. Opening price, which ranged from the same as Tuesday's finish to 1.2c lower, with January 1.39 1/2 to 1.39 3/4 and May 1.35 1/2 to 1.35 3/8, were followed by setbacks all around.

Oats weakened with corn. After opening at 4c and 4 1/2c advance, the market underwent a material setback. Provisions were dull and heavy. The outlook was that arrivals of hogs would continue to equal if not exceed the slaughtering capacity of packing houses here and at other centers.

AMUSEMENTS

ALHAMBRA

Tonight.
Tom Mix, the daring screen star, added a new triumph to his credit yesterday when his latest release, "Fame and Fortune," was shown at the Alhambra theatre. Built around the theme, "Fame and Fortune," the picture is a story of a man who is capable of unusual feats, both when he is on horseback and when he is not, but he always gives the impression that they are perfectly reasonable and proper things to do. Also Fatty Arbuckle in "Fatty Cleans Up."

Friday and Saturday.
Ethel Barrymore, the beautiful actress of international fame, will be the star of "Our Mrs. McChesney" at the Alhambra theatre on Friday and Saturday. This is the story of a clever woman who retrieves the fallen fortunes of a business firm, for whom she is a travelling saleswoman, by unique and original methods of her own.

Auditorium.
Harold Lockwood.
As its principal attraction for today and tomorrow the Auditorium theatre will offer Harold Lockwood in his latest production, "Pals First," a six act Screen Classics, Inc., production, distributed by Metro. The photoplay is a film version of the stage success of the same name dramatized by Lee Wilson Dodd from the novel by Francis Perry Elliott, published by Harper and Brothers.

"Pals First" is a romantic drama revolving around two wayfaring pals, Danny Rowland and Dominio, graduates of Yale, Harvard, Sing Sing and San Quentin, who gain joyous come in the hon. of being Dick Castelman, somewhere in Sunny Tennessee, when Uncle Alex, an old darkey servant believes he recognizes in Danny his long absent master. The pals decide to continue their deception only long enough to secure food and new clothing but change their plans when they discover that Dr. Harry Chilton, Dick's cousin, is endeavoring to secure the fortune willed by Dick to his sweetheart, Jean Logan, by trying to convince her that Dick is dead and that she is therefore freed from her promises.

This was the late Lockwood's leading picture and will be seen together with a two-reel comedy.

"The Captain and the Kids."
The announcement that those two mischievous youngsters of cartoon fame, "The Kids," along with the good-natured "Captain," will be the next attraction at the Auditorium theatre and should be welcome news to the large army of theatregoers who have been amused by their antics and adventures in the dailies all over the country. The new piece, which is a musical comedy in three acts and entitled: "The Captain and the Kids," is presented by Manager Gus Hill who was the first showman to see the possibilities of offering the noted characters in stage form. "Mother" and the "Professor" along with the other welcome favorites will be on hand and there is no doubt that their advent will be received with plenty of acclaim and approval. The day of engagement is Saturday next. Seats now selling.

"Naughty! Naughty!"
Supporting "Naughty" in her latest Paramount photoplay, "Naughty, Naughty!" at the Auditorium theatre next Sunday is an excellent cast including Earl Rodney, Gloria Hope, Marjorie Bennett, and Andrew Arbuckle. The direction of Jerome Storm, under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince himself, insures an

"Oh, Lady! Lady!"
"Oh, Lady! Lady!", the fifth New York Princess Theatre Musical Comedy Masterpiece, which will be seen at the Auditorium theatre for two days and matinee, starting next Tuesday, is of the same fine quality as its popular predecessor, "Oh, Boy," which will be recalled as one of the real substantial musical comedies. Hits that appeared in this city last season. As with all Comstock-Elliott musical comedies, "Oh, Lady! Lady!" has its key-note, youthfulness to a marked degree. It has 16 song hits and the smartest and most captivating gowns ever seen in a Princess Theatre production.

The story by Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse, tells of a young hero about to be married, who is confronted by an old-time school-day sweetheart. Fearing that she had come to sue him for breach of promise, because he has inherited money and is about to marry, he engages "Painting Fanny" Welch, a pretty little shop-lifter to pose as his bride-to-be, and meets his schoolgirl sweetheart. Everything is arranged, but it turns out that the schoolgirl sweetheart is not visiting the bride's household to make trouble, but to deliver part of the bride's trousseau. Seats on sale Saturday.

Auditorium Notes.
The late Harold Lockwood is the feature at the Auditorium today in "Pals First" and together with this feature is shown one of the cleverest comedies shown at this theatre called "The Recruit," with Twede-Dan, a new comedian to Newark, but one who surely is making himself liked at this popular playhouse. Laughter and applause was given this feature at yesterday's screening and owing to its great success, it is being held over for today. "The Recruit" is right up to the minute and shows Twede-Dan in an effort to enlist for his country in order to win the girl he wants. But failing in this, does not keep him from falling asleep and dreaming of accom-

LYRIC.
The most distinguished "cast" that ever featured the presentation of a motion picture has been offered in "Crashing Through to Berlin," the thrilling review of the world war, which will be offered by Manager Eldon of the Lyric theatre today and tomorrow.

It is an assemblage of "all stars" from President Wilson down to the most humble soldier in the ranks of the army of India. King George of England, King Albert of Belgium, President Poincaré of France, Emperor of Italy, General Foch, the greatest strategists of all time, General Joffre, General Petain, General Haig, General Pershing, and every other famous leading figure in the great conflict in which practically the entire world now is engaged.

The villain of the "play" is none other than the mad monarch of Hunland, William von Hohenzollern, himself. When "Crashing Through to Berlin" was made actors' make-up was banned, and the film editing staff was instructed that only the men themselves would be accepted in the finished films.

These directions were followed out to the last detail, with the result that a comprehensive offering on a scale never before attempted was made.
From the slaying of Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria, in what has been proclaimed openly as a conspiracy by Germany to involve the world in a hateful struggle for dominance of land and sea, every event in the war that smacked of fiction was disregarded.

Readers' Viewpoint

That Apple Show.
Editor Advocate:—Having just returned from southern Ohio the writer's attention has been directed to an article appearing in last week's local papers, stating that a trio of Licking County exhibitors designated as Powell, Price and Blamer, "cleaned up, so to speak" in the winning of prizes at the Farmers Exposition and Ohio State Apple Show held recently at Toledo. Without further explanation or modification it was stated that the trio of exhibitors won $314 in prizes for apples. No intimation was given that there were other quite successful exhibitors, much less that were other individual growers whose fruit won larger sums of the premium money than that above stated. A similar boastful article from the same source appeared in the local papers one year ago, following the Ohio State Apple Show, with but little greater justification, but, out of courtesy, was permitted to go without a challenge.

While injustice to other exhibitors at the recent Ohio State Apple Show, let us hope, was not intended, it is true that a wrong impression was given by the article of last week, to readers of our home papers. The report of awards at the late apple show is stated to have been secured through an interview with Mr. Powell whose name appears at the head of the list of the trio of Licking County prize-winners. Congratulations are due, certainly, to these exhibitors who won a total of $314 on apples, and especially to Mr. Price in whose orchards the excellent fruit was produced. The truth remains, however, that there was by no means a "clean-up, so to speak," of premium money offered on apples by the Ohio State Apple Show management.

Mr. J. C. Hoffman of Lancaster, Fairfield County, was the heaviest winner of cash prizes on apples, being awarded first premium on the 100 tray exhibit—the largest of the many classes on which money was offered. R. C. Hanlin, of Newark, was winner of the second premium on the 100 tray class, while A. H. Powell in charge of Mr. Price's exhibit, was awarded the third prize on 100 trays.

In the third class of county exhibits in which five displays competed, the first prize was won by R. C. Hanlin to the credit of Licking County, with apples grown by himself, while J. C. Hoffman won the second premium for Fairfield County.

There were a number of other exhibitors who, with smaller entries of apples, were by no means unsuccessful in obtaining premiums. Among these should be mentioned C. F. Beatty of Fairfield County, and Thos. E. Thornburg, of Ashland County.

Mr. Powell's so-called "clean-up" winnings of a total of $314 at the Ohio State Apple Show, is an achievement deserving of much credit; but fairness to other exhibitors of the state, and especially to those of our own and closely neighboring counties demands that they be given some little degree of recognition.

As before stated, Mr. Hoffman, of Lancaster was the heaviest winner of prizes, in total cash received. R. C. Hanlin followed closely with a total of $361, for which, in addition, he has ribbons indicating 24 firsts, 21 seconds, 15 thirds and 1 fourth premiums. Mr. Hanlin for a number of years has been resident manager of Dale View Farm nine miles southeast of the city of Newark.

At the various annual Ohio State Apple Shows and at the Ohio State Fair, within recent years, he has fairly quietly and unobtrusively won a place of honor among the goodly number of Ohio's foremost growers and exhibitors of fruit. In this work he is ably assisted by Mrs. Hanlin who has become unusually proficient in the proper and tasteful packing and arrangement of apples for exhibition purposes.

The horticultural work of the writer takes him to many parts of Ohio including the so-called apple-growing sections of southeastern and southern counties. Our observation and experience, however, warrants the declaration that the uplands of Licking County are not excelled by any portions of Ohio for the purpose of apple production, providing proper care of the orchards be given.

Hence no particular section of our state can rightfully claim the distinction of being superior for apple production. Equally true is it that no particular part of the upland section of Licking County, nor any particular grower or exhibitor of apples or other fruits produced in our home county, is warranted in posing as the one and only one successful line in his line, or who is abue to "clean up, so to speak," the prizes available to Ohio orchardists who exhibit at our Ohio State Apple Shows.
